

A European flyway research network for the effective conservation of migrant landbirds

Empowering Research and Conservation Across Europe and Africa

Who We Are

EUFLYNET COST Action is an initiative dedicated to the intricate dynamics of migrant landbird populations and species conservation. With a third of European breeding bird species undertaking annual migrations to Africa, and many of those species in serious decline, the need for comprehensive, cross-continental research and conservation strategies has never been more urgent.

Our Impact

Scientific Advancements

Our network will identify key research gaps and initiate collaborative projects to address them, leveraging technologies for tracking and advanced data analysis techniques.

Strengthened Capacities

Participants across the network will benefit from targeted training, gaining skills in data analysis, fieldwork methodologies, and conservation strategy planning.

Network Engagement

EUFLYNET will engage a wide network of stakeholders, advocating at national and international levels for the protection of the African-Eurasian Flyway and its key sites for migratory landbirds.

What We Aim For

Research Coordination

- EUFLYNET coordinates cutting-edge research across the flyway, integrating efforts from various disciplines to provide a holistic understanding of migratory bird population dynamics.

Capacity Building

- Through short-term scientific missions, workshops, and training sessions, EUFLYNET enhances the research capabilities of professionals and institutions, especially in peripheral countries.

Decision Makers Engagement

- We engage with stakeholders and policymakers to ensure that scientific insights translate into effective conservation actions and policies.

Community Engagement

- EUFLYNET fosters a vibrant community of practice, encouraging the exchange of knowledge, experiences, and best practices among its members, including citizens, civil society, and community leaders.

A European flyway research network for the effective conservation of migrant landbirds

Empowering Research and Conservation Across Europe and Africa

Join us!

EUFLYNET is more than a project; it's a community committed to safeguarding our migratory bird populations for generations to come. Our doors are open to a diverse range of contributors – from civil society members, community leaders, and scientists across various disciplines to policymakers, business and private sector representatives, ecologists, educators, and anyone with a passion for wildlife conservation. Regardless of your background or expertise, EUFLYNET invites you to contribute to our shared mission.

Together, we can make a lasting impact on bird conservation across Europe and Africa.

Funded by the European Union

Contact Us

@euflynet

www.euflynet.eu